

Jack's Game of Life: A Screen Specification

November 11, 2012

1 Overview

This will be a jack take on John Conway's Game of Life which is a simple cellular automata toy that represents living organisms through a simple set of rules and little squares.

2 Screen Specification

The game will have two screens. The first will be a splash screen that will describe how to play. That screen will allow you to go the next screen, which is the simulation screen which will be a grid of squares.